POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

This document is given to provide student, staff, facility, administration, and board members with the guidance necessary to ensure that the Seminary is operated with the upmost proficiency and professionalism. Policies and procedures are an essential part of any organization. Together, policies and procedures, provide a roadmap for day to-day operations. They ensure compliance with laws and regulations, give guidance for decision-making, and streamline internal processes.

THE NEED FOR POLICIES AND PROCEDURES:

However, policies and procedures will not do Jackson any good if your/no one follows them. Students, staff alike don't always like the idea of having to follow rules. But policy implementation is not just a matter of arbitrarily forcing us to do things we don't want to do. Following policies and procedures is good for everyone and the seminary. After all, policies and procedures keep operations from devolving into complete chaos. When everyone is following policies and procedures, Jackson can run smoothly. This document helps ensure that our structures and teams operate as they are meant to; And mistakes and hiccups in processes can be quickly identified and addressed.

THE RESULTS OF FOLLOWING POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

When your staff is following policies and procedures, your organization will use time and resources more efficiently. You will be able to grow and achieve your goals as an organization. Our policies provide avenues of consistency in practices is also right for each person individually. We know what each of us are responsible for, what is expected and what can expect.

When Jackson follow procedures, Jackson perform tasks correctly and provide consistent, safe and efficient service. This enhances the quality of Jackson's services. And, in turn, improves Jackson Theological Seminary's reputation. Everyone can know they are fulfilling their roles and take pride in their work.

PUBLISHING POLICY AND PROCEDURES

Unfortunately, this policy manual may end up stuffed in a drawer or on a shelf gathering dust. Therefore, this document, which is necessary will also be made available online for expediency This ensures everyone can follow policies and procedures rather than just trying to remember the correct steps.

A scoring rubric is a method to communicate expectations of quality around a task. In many cases, scoring rubrics are used to delineate consistent criteria for grading. A scoring rubric allows teachers and students alike to evaluate criteria, which can be complex and subjective.

INCOMPLETE WORK:

In exceptional cases, such as illness or family emergency, a student may request an incomplete grade from an instructor no later than the last day of class. Thereafter, an incomplete must be requested from the Academic Dean. If approved, the instructor and Dean provide written acknowledgement and guidelines on an Incomplete Form and the form is sent to the Director of Administration and Records (DAR) to be entered in the official grading. Course work for an approved incomplete must be completed and submitted no later than 21 days after the last day of the session for the BAs/M.Div. and special students. Students who fail to submit required course work by the deadline will receive the earned grade for the course. The instructor is required to submit the grade change upon receiving and grading the completed work from the student, and no later than 10-days after receipt of said work. An Incomplete is not considered as completed credit hours which may affect the students financial aid status (when applicable). Students with at least one incomplete that are one semester old are placed on Registration Hold until the incomplete is resolved. Students on Registration Hold will have limited access in the student information system (SIS), including the inability to register for upcoming courses.

For intensive courses, such as those offered during the summer term, requests for an incomplete must be made directly to the instructor by the due date of the last class session for the course.

Drop/withdrawal after midterms will not receive a refund. The funds could be held over and credited for another course date with an agreed upon return date. If the student does not return within that agreed upon time frame, the offer will be forfeited, and the funds will not be made available for courses in the future.

EMPLOYEE ACADEMIC ADVISING PROCEDURES

The CAO will serve as the primary Academic Advisor and due to the Seminary's size will authorize other instructors to advise students as well. The CAO or his or her designee, will ensure that all instructors provide an adequate amount of time to meet with the students on an as-need basis. The staff will provide enough time for students already enrolled in classes to receive adequate counsel for their stated academic goals while meeting school standards. Students may request for advisement from their instructors who will notify the CAO. The CAO will set up and appointment for advisement with the student.

PERFORMANCE APPRAISAL

Performance appraisals are used to document job performance, and successful completion of probationary periods (periodic performance appraisals). It should be noted that a performance evaluation does not necessarily mean a salary adjustment. It is important that an employee be recognized for good performance and that the member receives appropriate suggestions for improvement when necessary. Consistent with this goal, the member's performance, conduct and attendance will be observed, documented and evaluated by the supervisor on an ongoing basis. The member may also receive periodic written evaluations.

Annual performance appraisals shall be conducted on all full-time Faculty/Staff member members who have been employed as a full-time employee for three (3) months as of October each year.

If a member is transferred to a new position, he/she will receive a periodic evaluation after the member has been in the new job for three months, but this may also occur more frequently if the supervisor or department head feels it is necessary. The releasing supervisor will provide a complete performance appraisal. This appraisal will be averaged with the new position if the employee meets requirements for an annual appraisal. All written performance reviews will be based on the employee's overall performance in relation to the job responsibilities and will also consider conduct, demeanor, and record of attendance and punctuality.

When a supervisor is aware of a problem concerning a subordinate member's job performance, conduct, attendance or other problems, it is the supervisor's responsibility to privately counsel the employee regarding the problem(s), advising the employee of the standards that must be met, setting time limits in which to meet them if necessary, and the consequences for not meeting them. Any members who refuse to, or otherwise does not, perform the duties of his or her assigned position, in a manner acceptable to the seminary is subject to disciplinary action, including termination. This applies to faculty/staff's conduct and attendance as well.

When a supervisor completes any type of an evaluation on an employee, the employee is asked to sign the form. The purpose for this is to assure the Chairman of the Board that the employee has been counseled, has been informed of the contents of the evaluation and that the employee has received a copy. The signature of the employee is in no way an indication of approval or disapproval of the contents of the evaluation.

Periodically the Chairman of the Board will undertake specific, targeted instruction in such matters regarding equal employment. All training should be documented, and the original forwarded to DAR's office. All Faculty/Staff member should avail themselves to outside training opportunities. Job related training opportunities can be supplemented by the Seminary if they are job related and approved by the Board.

ACADEMIC FREEDOM

Jackson Theological Seminary affirms that this institution of higher education is conducted for the common good and not to further the interests of either the individual faculty member or the institution as a whole. The common good depends upon the free search for truth and its exposition.

Academic freedom is essential to these purposes and applies to all disciplines. Freedom in research is fundamental to the advancement of truth. Academic freedom in all disciplines is fundamental for the protection of the rights of the faculty and the student. It carries with it duties correlative with rights, regardless of employment status.

COMPLYING WITH APPLICABLE INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY AND COPYRIGHTS

COPYRIGHT COMPLIANCE POLICY:

The purpose of the Jackson Theological Seminary Copyright Compliance Policy for the Library and the Classroom is to provide a summary of United States Copyright Law as it relates to the use of copyright protected works in the classroom and library at Jackson Theological Seminary. This policy covers copyright issues including but not limited to photocopying, traditional and online classrooms, print and electronic holdings, Interlibrary loans and document deliveries. This policy is not intended to be a substitute for legal advice.

Specific rights are granted to students and faculty for their individual creative work. U.S. Copyright Act (Title 17, U.S. Code). Among the exclusive rights granted to "authors" are the rights to reproduce, distribute, publicly perform and publicly display their works. These works may include books, magazines, journals, newsletters, maps, charts, photographs, other printed materials, and non- printed materials.

These rights provide copyright holders control over the use of their creations and an ability to benefit monetarily and otherwise, from the use of their works. Non-copyright holders, as determined by the law, must generally obtain copyright permission prior to using or reproducing that work. Exceptions in the Copyright Act are for certain academic uses; for example, permission is not required for actions such as reading or borrowing original literary works or photographs from a library collection. See Fair Use Provision (Copyright Act, Section 107).

FAIR USE PROVISION

Under the Fair Use Provision, a reproduction of someone else's copyright-protected work is likely to be considered fair if it is used for one of the following purposes: criticism, comment, news reporting, teaching, scholarship and research. If the reproduction is for one of these purposes, a determination as to whether the reproduction is fair use must be made based upon these four factors:

1. Purpose and character of the use
 2. Nature of the copyright – protected work
 3. Amount and substantiality of work used
 4. Effect of the use on the market or potential market value of the work.
5. To minimize the risk of copyright infringement, Jackson interprets the following as fair use of copyrighted works:
1. Quotation of short passages in a scholarly or technical work for illustration or clarification of the author's observations.
 2. Spontaneous one-time use of reproduction of material for classroom use.
 3. Use in parody of short portions of the work itself.
 4. A summary of an address or article, which may include quotations of short passages.

If the use does not meet the above criteria and the work is protected by copyright, permission from the copyright holder or agent needs to be obtained.

Classroom Handouts fall into two categories; one that requires permission and one that does not. If the handout is spontaneous and a new work that permission could not be obtained in a timely manner, the work may be used without obtaining permission. The handout is planned in advance, repeated from semester to semester, or involves works that have existed long enough to obtain permission in advance; the work cannot be used without permission.

Copies of a publication that the Library owns may be placed on reserve in the library without obtaining copyright permission. However, the library cannot reproduce additional copies and place them on reserve for students to review, in either paper or electronic format, without obtaining copyright permission.

Photocopying by students is subject to a fair use analysis as well. Photocopying all the assignments from a book recommended for purchase by the professor, making multiple copies of articles or book chapters for distribution to classmates, or copying material from consumable workbooks, all require copyright permission.

PHOTOCOPYING IN JACKSON LIBRARY

Photocopying in the Jackson Library is permissible without obtaining permission from the copyright owner, under the following circumstances:

1. Library user requests one copy of an article from a periodical or short excerpt of any other work.
2. The reproduction must become the property of the library user.

3. The library staff must have no reason to believe that the reproduction will be used for purposes other than private study, scholarship and research.
4. The library must display: The Copyright law of the United States (Title 17, United States Code) governs the making of photocopies or other reproduction of copyright material. Under certain conditions specified in the law, libraries and archives are authorized to furnish a photocopy or other reproduction. One of these specified conditions is that the photocopy or reproduction is not “used for any purposes other than private study, scholarship, or research.” If a user makes a request for, or later uses, a photocopy or reproduction for purposes in excess of “fair use,” that user may be liable for copyright infringement.
5. Up to three reproductions of any unpublished work owned by the library may be made for preservation, security or for deposit for research use in another library or archives, including digital reproductions, of a published work that is lost, stolen, damaged, deteriorating or stored in an obsolete format.
